Clarksville Hosting Charity Gaming Seminar for Nonprofit Agencies

The Lakeview Holiday Inn at Clarksville, Indiana, will be the site for a charity gaming educational seminar on Friday, April 30, 2004, sponsored by the Indiana Department of Revenue. The Clarksville seminar is the third in a series of six such seminars for nonprofit agencies scheduled around the state this year, report Department officials.

Legislative changes, new forms, new rules and new regulations are on the agenda and a panel discussion will be included. Officials from the Department, which administers charity gaming events for nonprofit organizations in Indiana, will cover issues that affect all nonprofit organizations, as well as specific information regarding charity gaming activities.

Reservations are not required, but seating will be limited. Doors open at 8:00 a.m. for registration, and the seminars will begin promptly at 9:00 a.m. Since heavy attendance is expected, participants may want to arrive early. Persons needing special accommodations should call 317-232-4646 at least 72 hours in advance.

The Holiday Inn is located at 505 Marriott Drive, and its telephone number is 800-824-7740. Lafayette, Jasper and Muncie will be hosting seminars on September 24 and October 15 and 23, 2004, respectively. Indianapolis and Plymouth held seminars earlier in April.
